

bead serves as a representation of that camper. Pieces of string are passed around and each camper strings their bead on to create the final tent bracelet.

⑫ Peulat adah "Mail"

This activity involves the wholeedah - preferably one no larger than 90-100. However, the stipulations are that the counselors running/helping w/ the program must have a pretty good idea of all the camper's names. This is also most effective with the two oldest edot at camp and also when done towards the end of the summer.

Campers sit in a big circle and are each handed small strips/scraps of paper and a pencil. Counselors explain that they are going to be exchanging notes w/ anyone in the edah and that the counselors are the mailmen. Each round can have a topic such as "write to someone that you want to say sorry about something this session" or "write to someone who you haven't talked to/hung out with all session." That way every camper is guaranteed mail at some point in the game. Music can be played while making deliveries and campers can write to more than one person per round. Campers fold piece of paper and write camper's name on the outside they wish^{it} to be delivered to. It can be signed or anonymous. They then hold it up in the air for counselors to pick up and deliver immediately. Counselors can make this fun for themselves too as they run around and deliver. Continue as long as desired or until it is obvious that campers are getting bored w/ it.
