

Special Days and Trips

1st session trip-

Magshimim's only special day first session was our trip. The trip was a huge success. We first traveled to downtown Boston. We broke up into groups and did some shopping and sightseeing around Quincy Market and Faneuil Hall. After a few hours of free time and a pack out lunch, we left for Salem Massachusetts. In Salem we went to see Transformers the movie at a local theatre. From there we went to Swampscott where we had a kosher Barbeque at a camper's house. The day cost approximately $1500, and the feedback from the campers was overwhelmingly positive.

Yom Bereshit-

Yom Bereshit was a very successful yom meyuchad. Its goal was to help the kids understand the order and wonder of creation, while still having a great time. We accomplished this by having a peulah for every day of creation. We began the day with davening on the A-side agam overlooking the sunrise. This was a really wonderful and meaningful moment for a lot of kids. We also had some meditation for the second day, played some water games for the third day, gave them time to enjoy the sun for the fourth day, had them artistically create creatures for the fifth day, they played capture the apple from the tree of knowledge for the sixth day, and we rested on Shabbat and watched a movie. This day cost us no money at all, and it was a great day.

Yom Remix-

Yom Remix was a yom meyuchad in which everything was turned on its head. We remixed the yom meyuchad for every perek. We also mixed up the bunks and counselors for the day. We played capture the counselor, had a Jewish trivia game, set up a slip'n'slide, held a kosher cooking competition, and had a program where the kids had to make a skit on what machaneh ramah would be like if they ran the camp. The goal for this day was to have a fun day where the eidah bonded as a result of being mixed into different bunks. We only spent approximately $50.

2nd session trip-

For the second session trip we went to the Eastfield mall, where we had a scavenger hunt and some free time. We also went to Interskate 91 which is an indoor roller skating rink. The day was capped off with a trip to Rondeau's where the kids all enjoyed some tasty treats. The trip cost approximately 1200$
