Aaron: Well, I'm just goo-goo for Lady Gaga

Lena: Isn't everyone goo-goo for Lady Gaga?

Direct towards campers

Aaron: That's a good thing because today is...

Everyone: Yom Goo-Goo Ga-ga!!!

- Bunk 11 – Party in the USA by Miley Cyrus
- Bunk 17 – Don't Stop Me Now by Queen

Back up Peulat Tzrif

Goal: Give campers an idea about how it feels to be stereotyped

Materials:

- Tape
- 15 pieces of paper
 - Paper will be divided into 4 cards each
 - Each card will have a stereotype on it

Activity:

Counselors put stereotypes on the campers' foreheads. The goal is for the campers to figure out the stereotype that they are. The campers will be told that they have to interact with everyone as they would interact during a PE class with the stereotype on the other person's forehead. Before the campers begin, a counselor should review all of the possible stereotypes and should make sure that their campers understand what they all mean. When the campers figure out the stereotype on their forehead they sit down in a circle. Once everyone knows who they are, the bunk sits in a circle and discusses how it felt to be treated like their stereotype and what it was like treating others according to their stereotypes.

Stereotypes:

Jock	Slacker
Nerd	Chatterbox
Loner	Bully
Invisible	Class Clown
Popular	Girly
Religious	Stuck-up
Spoiled

Discussion Questions:

1. How did it feel to be treated based on what was on your forehead/what was on the outside instead of the inside?
2. Did anyone feel hurt by the way they were being treated and why
3. Did anyone feel bad treating others according to their stereotypes?
